How to complete Section B of the online DSRB Application Form in ROAM

(Version 1, 3 August 2011)

Section B (Study Team & Submission Domain) of the online DSRB Application Form tells the DSRB who are involved in the Study, their respective study roles and the locations where the Study will be conducted.

This section is important because it states who is responsible for the conduct of the Study and affects the DSRB's approval for the locations where the study can be conducted.

The Overall Principal Investigator, Site PI and Study Sites

Each Study Site which is under the purview of the DSRB must have one Site PI. For Studies which have only one Study Site, the Site PI is also the Overall Principal Investigator. (Fig. 1)

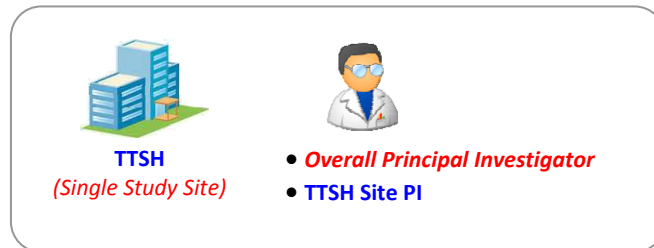

Fig. 1: Single Site Study

For a Study with multiple Study Sites which are under the purview of the DSRB, the Overall Principal Investigator must be chosen from among the Site PI's.

The following example shows a Study with 3 Study Sites – TTSH, NUHS and KTPH. (Fig. 2) Each Study Site must have one Site PI from that Institution. In this example, the TTSH Site PI is also appointed as the Overall Principal Investigator.

Fig.2: Multi-center Study

The Overall Principal Investigator has the responsibility of communicating with the DSRB for the overall conduct of the Study in all the Sites. The Overall Principal Investigator is also the only person who can submit any of the forms to the DSRB.

Changing the name of the Overall Principal Investigator in the DSRB Application Form

When a user creates a new draft DSRB Application Form, the ROAM system will default them as the Overall Principal Investigator and include the user's Institution as the default Study Site.

In this example, Kian Wah, from NHG HQ, is the person who has created a new draft DSRB Application Form. (Fig. 3)

Important Notes

While any member of the Study Team or Study Administrator can initiate and edit a draft Application Form, only the Overall Principal Investigator can submit the Form to the DSRB. This act is equivalent to the Overall PI signing on a physical form.

Access to any Study is based on the name-list found in Section A (Study Administrators) and Section B (Study Team Members). If any person has left the Study, we strongly encourage the Overall Principal Investigator to update these sections of Application Form through a Study Amendment Form.
